

News Briefs

Monitor corporate announcements and disclosures from public companies, private companies and investment firms.

LSEG provides comprehensive coverage of corporate announcements from public, private companies and investment firms, concisely summarised into short News Briefs using GenAI.

Our global company news service includes corporate announcements and disclosures from companies to keep financial professionals informed about financially relevant company activities. Leveraging GenAI, we already offer concise bullet-form summaries of those releases as News Briefs to alert financial professionals to new corporate events across a wide – and increasing – spectrum of public companies and are now expanding the service to incorporate additional coverage of 60K private companies and 30K investment firms.

News Briefs cover market-sensitive disclosures from companies listed in supported markets, regardless of the channel used for dissemination, including press release wires, filings and regulatory wires and corporate/investor relations websites. In addition, updates on private entities are available, which are especially valuable as unlisted companies often don't report through traditional channels, making updates harder to source.

The workflow

With the accelerated shift of companies posting announcements to their websites instead of, or ahead of, posting via traditional press release wires, our automated solution captures announcements that might otherwise be missed. While Reuters journalists focus on hard-hitting and in-depth journalism about companies, the addition of News Briefs to our global company news service provides financial professionals with rapid and comprehensive company coverage.

All News Briefs include either a link to the original document for non-licensed content or a source identifier and document name for licensed content, ensuring transparency and allowing users a pathway to view the original content.

Steps taken to deliver the solution include:
