A trusted partner

Approximately $10.6 trillion is benchmarked to the Russell US Indexes*, which provide comprehensive representation of the US equity market and its size and style segments.

Relevant

The Russell US Indexes are modular and flexible in their design, enabling customizable asset allocation structure.

Representative

Comprehensive coverage of the SMID cap US market segment, suitable as a benchmark for actively managed investments or as the foundation of index-linked products such as mutual funds and ETFs.

Reliable

Maintained using transparent, objective rules including annual reconstitution, quarterly eligible IPO additions and daily corporate action adjustments to ensure the index remains accurately representative.

Russell US Indexes as of reconstitution

The Russell US Indexes are completely recalibrated each year in June during reconstitution.

This rules-based approach to capturing the US market, which defines the beaks between market capitalization segments and determines where companies fall along the growth/value spectrum, is one of the most anticipated US market events each year.

Source: FTSE Russell. Data as of April 30, 2024. Russell Index constituents represent the preliminary reconstitution constituents as of rank day, April 30, 2024, which will be effective after market close on June 28, 2024. May not equal 100% due to rounding.

The market capitalization breakpoints for the Russell Indexes are based on new additions as of 2024 reconstitution. The market capitalization ranges used above are absolute breakpoints for new members and do not include capitalization banding. Capitalization banding involves the implementation of a ±2.5% band around certain breakpoints.
